

Title: Lecturer, Mathematical Science

Summary:

The Mathematical Sciences Department at Bentley University invites applications for a full-time Lecturer position beginning in the fall semester of 2020 to teach data science, statistics, or applied mathematics. Ideal candidates will have an excellent record of accomplishment in teaching and expertise in at least one of the areas mentioned, with the flexibility to teach a variety of courses at both the undergraduate and graduate level. The teaching load is four courses (12 credit hours) per semester.

The Mathematical Sciences Department offers courses that provide the quantitative, analytical and technical skills Bentley students need for in-demand business careers. The department has successful degree programs in Data Analytics, Actuarial Science, and Mathematical Sciences. Data Analytics is a new and fast growing major that includes courses in statistics, programming, modeling, and data mining. In Actuarial Science, Bentley offers specialized courses to help students prepare for professional exams administered by the Society of Actuaries (FM, P, IFM and LTAM). The department also offers a variety of applied mathematics courses.

Located 12 miles west of Boston in Waltham, Massachusetts, Bentley University is one of the nation's leading business schools, dedicated to preparing a new kind of business leader with the technical skills, global perspective and ethical standards required to make a difference in an ever-changing world. The university enrolls approximately 4,000 undergraduate and 1,000 graduate students. The Princeton Review ranks Bentley #1 in the United States in career services and #4 in internships, and Bloomberg BusinessWeek ranked Bentley a Top 10 undergraduate business school in 2016.
