Assistant Professor - Statistics

34128BR

Mathematics and Statistics

Position Description

Contributes to the university's mission through teaching, research and service, some variation by academic unit.

Major/Essential Functions

The Department of Mathematics and Statistics at Texas Tech University invites applications for one tenure-track position in Statistics and related fields beginning Fall 2024. The department seeks candidates who engage in nationally visible scholarship, establish externally funded research programs, positively interact with the existing research groups, involve both graduate and undergraduate students in their research and outreach, and show excellence in teaching at the graduate and undergraduate levels.

The ideal candidate would be performing research in Statistical Sciences, Data Science and/or Probability and Stochastics, with relevant applications to one of the following areas of national interest: climate and atmospheric sciences, virtual communication, digital imaging, finance, transportation, energy, and health. Service duties include program-building, as well as commitment to extracurricular activities. Service to the department, college, and university is expected.
