

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

DEPARTMENT OF STATISTICS

Openings for two tenure-track Assistant Professor positions, an Academic Professional position, and a Lecturer position in Statistics and Business Statistics

Department of Statistics at the University of Georgia is seeking applicants to fill FOUR vacant positions: Tenure-track assistant professor in Statistics; Tenure-track Assistant Professor in Statistical Machine Learning; Academic Professional in Statistics; and Lecturer in Statistics and Business Statistics. See below for a brief description of each of these four positions along with application deadlines and respective links to apply for the positions. Application deadline for tenure-track Assistant Professor position in statistics and the Academic Professional position are coming up soon (November 26, 2017). Please click the title of each announcement below for a link to the job description.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation or protected veteran status. The Franklin College of Arts and Sciences, its many units, and the University of Georgia are committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and students, and sustaining a work and learning environment that is inclusive.

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor position in Statistics

The Department of Statistics at the University of Georgia invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in statistics, starting August 2018. Applicants must have a Ph.D. degree in Statistics or a closely related discipline by August 1, 2018, and scholarly credentials must reflect a strong commitment to teaching and research in statistics. Successful applicants are expected to develop a research program that will be competitive for external funding. Applications will be considered until the position is filled, and those received by November 26, 2017, will receive full consideration. To apply for the position, candidates should visit facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/2745

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor position in Statistical Machine Learning

The Department of Statistics at the University of Georgia invites applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of assistant professor in the area of Statistical Machine Learning, starting August 2018. Applicants must have a Ph.D. degree in Statistics or a closely related discipline by

August 1, 2018, and scholarly credentials must reflect a strong commitment to teaching and research in statistical machine learning. Successful applicants are expected to develop a research program that will be competitive for external funding. Applications will be considered until the position is filled, and those received by January 2, 2018, will receive full consideration. To apply for the position, candidates should visit facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/2909 and provide all of the requested information. This is a special UGA Presidential Hiring Initiative position, which comes with a competitive salary and a generous startup fund.

Academic Professional position in Statistics

The Department of Statistics at the University of Georgia invites applications for a 12-month fulltime position at the rank of Academic Professional, starting August 1, 2018. Applicants must have a Ph.D. degree in Statistics or a closely related field by August 1, 2018, and a record that shows a strong interest in the teaching of statistics, especially a passion for teaching undergraduate introductory statistics courses. Successful applicants are also expected to have excellent management, organizational, and software skills. This is a non-tenure-track faculty rank with a career ladder. Applications will be considered until the position is filled, and those received by November 26, 2017, will receive full consideration. To apply for the position, candidates should visit facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/2761 and provide all of the requested information.

Lecturer Position in Statistics and Business Statistics

The Department of Statistics at the University of Georgia invites applications for a position as Lecturer in the area of statistics and business statistics, starting August 2018. Applicants must have a Ph.D. degree in Statistics or a closely related discipline by August 1, 2018. The person in this position is expected to teach sections of an introductory business statistics course, MSIT 3000, some advanced undergraduate courses and/or lower level graduate courses, spanning a range of topics. Scholarly and teaching credentials must reflect a strong commitment to teaching. Like all faculty members, the person hired is expected to be engaged in the activities of the department. This is a non-tenure-track faculty rank with a career ladder. Applications will be considered until the position is filled, and those received by January 2, 2018, will receive full consideration. To apply for the position, candidates should visit facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/2907